United to Defend California's Environmental Protection Laws

CEQA Works is a broad coalition of civic, conservation, environmental justice, historic preservation, and public health groups, business leaders, and legal experts. Participating organizations are committed to shielding California's landmark environmental laws from radical reforms that would limit public input into land use planning, threaten public health, and weaken environmental protections.

We are committed to positive updates to the California Environmental Quality Act that maintain its core principles:

- Transparency. CEQA must continue to require public disclosure of the project, its potential environmental impacts and consideration of reasonable alternatives.
- Mitigation. CEQA must continue to require mitigation of all significant effects on the environment to the extent feasible.

- Comprehensive protection. CEQA must apply to all significant impacts on the environment, including cumulative impacts, and provide a safety net to cover holes in the existing regulatory structure.
- Public participation. CEQA must continue to require public participation in the review of environmental issues, including requiring a written response to public comments.
- Community enforcement. CEQA must continue to provide the public with the right to sue to enforce its protections, a key tool to protect communities, particularly those in disadvantaged areas.
