

Camping by Purple Pond

An open area just past Purple Pond, where most people camp, has enough flat ground for maybe one tent only.

Better sites can be found on the ridge nearby, just past the pond. Where trail turns left, go right and follow the use trail.

The first site is near a large oak tree. More good sites follow.

Day hike to Mustang Peak

From Purple Pond, continue north on Dutch's Trail. In 1.4 miles turn east onto County Line Road, and continue for 1.7 miles to Mustang Peak.

Day hike to Kingbird Pond

Try an easy cross-country route to descend to Orestimba Creek Road.

At the north end of Dutch's Trail at County Line Road, look for barb wire fence right across the road. Follow the fence along minor ridge, and it will lead you all the way down to Orestimba Creek Road.

Trip highlights

- Camping near picturesque pond
- Lovely North Fork Pacheco Creek with deep swimming holes in spring and early summer
- Abundant wildlife - deer, wild pigs, coyotes, red-tail hawks, coots, blackbirds, bunnies, turtles, frogs
- Spectacular ridge-top views along Dutch's Trail
- Optional day hike to Mustang Peak
- Optional cross-country day hike to Kingbird Pond
- Solitude
- Some trails may be obscured by brush and tall grass

- Dowdy Entrance open May through Labor Day, weekends only. Check www.coepark.net for hours.
- In summer, temperatures above 90 degrees between 11 a.m. and 7:30-8 p.m. are not unusual. Hike early in the morning and late in the evening. Plan shorter trips when necessary to prevent heat exhaustion.
- In late summer consider gaiters to keep burs and sharp seeds out of your shoes and socks.

Route
 Take Mack's Corral and North Fork trails towards Tie Down Trail. Kaiser Aetna Road is a shorter alternative, but it can be dusty, with little shade and no water. Continue on Tie Down Trail to Yellow Jacket Trail, past the Yellow Jacket Pond. Turn right at the junction with Dutch's Trail. The trail crosses a tributary of Coon Creek and ascends steadily through chaparral, offering fine views of Burra-Burra. On the way back, retrace your steps or take Dutch's Trail, bypassing Yellow Jacket Pond. This section of Dutch's Trail is rarely used but easy to follow. It climbs up to a minor ridge with scattered oaks and finally joins Tie Down Trail. Sturla Dowdy spring on Mack's Corral Trail (1/2 mile from visitor center) is a welcomed site on the way up on a hot summer day.
